Severe Sand Storm

A considerable amount of real estate changed hands, last Saturday, during the sand storm but no one relished the addition to, or subtraction from their gardens or farms. The air was filled to overflowing with sand, paper, sticks, and a few out-buildings. The "fun?" lasted about two hours, the wind blowing about 45 miles an hour. It was impossible to see across the street, at times, the clouds of sand and dust being so dense.

A sad fatality occurred during the height of the storm, when the roof of Leon C. Benoit's house was completely destroyed.

Benoit had noticed that the roof was getting shaky so he attempted to fix it, and was on the roof when the wind carried it away. Both of Benoit's legs were broken and he was hurt internally. After suffering for several hours, in intense agony, death relieved him, on Sunday.

L. C. Benoit was well known in this district and resided a few miles S. W. of town. He was a deaf mute and unmarried. The funeral took place in Consort.

BUSY BIDEFORD

The event of the week was the At Home to Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Robinson, on the occasion of their leaving for Saskatoon. The schoolhouse was crowded—a tribute to the universal esteem and appreciation felt for the Dr. and his wife. The children gave an excellent concert, containing many new and original items. The tableau of Winter & Spring opened the program, little Master McLeod appeared as Jack Frost, dressed in snowflakes and icicles and a 40 below cap. My Lady Spring wore a crown of greenery—Pussy-willows and crocuses afforded a true Spring like touch. An original action song "The Gopher Brigade" was a big success, the children with traps, guns and poison pails hit off, in appropriate verse, the contest of killing gophers for which the trustees pay a cent a tail. The most amusing dialogue we have ever seen was "Bringing up Father", taken from the ever popular story of the married life of Jiggs and Maggie. Miss Dolly Proctor as Maggie was the centre of attraction, her costume deserves special mention as it was an exact reproduction of the decolete attire of that lady. We have seldom seen better acting, even in the city productions, than this and the hearty laughter, at times so noisy that the performers had to pause, was a proof that the audience appreciated the humor and comedy of the situation. Miss Thomas and Mr. Watling were the soloists and both were deservedly encored.

The Misses McLeod delighted everyone with their duet, "The Cricket Band", and we shall hope to hear these fine little singers soon again, also Miss Gladys Staley with her recitation.

An amusing original dialogue was "The Sale of a Husband" when a young good-looking man was auctioned off, the bidders being a landlady and a suffragette, these parts were admirably taken by Miss Anna Kallman and Miss Evelyn Staley. He was knocked down to a little Irish widow, who was splendidly acted by Miss Marion McLeod.

The school children marched in procession past the guests, Dr. and Mrs. Robinson and the presentation gift of money was placed in a little white silk bag.

The Doctor responded suitably, and Mrs. Robinson favored the company with a dramatic recital which was received with much acclamation.

An excellent supper was provided by the Women of the Institute.

On Saturday there was a remarkable windstorm, here, as in other districts, and even the oldest old timer says he never has seen such a sandstorm before, the roads in some parts are 6 inches deep in drifted sand. Barns and lumber moved around in strange fashion, and considerable damage was done.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Bartel, interment taking place in Bideford Cemetery. She was universally respected as a woman who did her bit on the farm.

"So the Schoolma'am's affair has blown over?" commented the gossip.

"Why the laughter?" asked the Newsmen.

"Because of the storm!" replied the Bideford humorist.

There was a good attendance at Clarke's auction sale, on Saturday, when excellent prices were realized.

We are all sorry to lose Vic McLeod who left for Calgary, on Monday, to join the colors. Vic was a popular man in town.

There were 13 present at the Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. Watling. The resignation of Mrs. J. D. Robinson was accepted with regret, and Mrs. N. D. Robinson elected Pres. Mrs. Staley 1st vice, and Mrs. Proctor 2nd vice. It was decided to have an auction sale next fall to raise funds for the Red Cross. Mrs. McLeod read the reports of delegates and resolutions at Edmonton Convention. Next meeting at the home of Mrs. Becker on the 3rd Saturday in May.

A certain stranger within our gates, who was present at the At Home, (he not a subscriber) and who enjoyed, free of any charge, the excellent concert and supper, provided, on being asked by a Red Cross worker for two bits for the local Society, refused to assist the cause, altho Bideford hospitality had been generously offered and accepted by him. This gentleman evidently does not believe in doing even a little bit to help.

Vast Issues Depend Upon the Welfare of Our Men!

Cheer Up and Thank God for the Y.M.C.A.

TRY to picture yourself in the muddy cold trenches after exciting days and long nights of mortal danger and intense nervous strain. Rushing "whiz-bangs" and screaming "coal boxes" are no respecters of persons. You are hit! But despite shock and pain you still can face the long weary trudge back to dressing station. Weary, overwrought and depressed, you are prey to wild imaginings of that other coming ordeal with the surgeon. There are other "walking wounded," too! You must wait, wait, wait. And then—

Up comes a cheery Y.M.C.A. man, the ever-present "big brother" to the soldier, with words of manly encouragement. Close beside the dressing station the good generous folks at home have enabled him to set up a canteen. He hands you biscuits, and chocolate or coffee.

Y.M.C.A.

Red Triangle Fund

$2,250,000, May 7, 8, 9

Canada-Wide Appeal

"In thousands of cases," writes an officer, "it was that first hot cup of coffee that dragged the man back to life and sanity."

The tremendous helpfulness of the Y.M.C.A. as an aid to the "morale," or fighting spirit, of the soldiers is everywhere praised. No wonder the Germans make every effort to smash the Y.M.C.A. huts out of existence.

The Y.M.C.A. is everywhere. You first met the helpful, manly Y.M.C.A. worker in camp, then on train and boat, at camp in England and in France, close to the firing line. Often he risks his life to reach you in the trenches. He has won the warmest praise from military authorities, statesmen—the King!

Have you a precious boy at the front? You cannot be "over there" to guide him away from fierce temptations of camp and city. You cannot comfort him in his supreme hour of trial. Your parcels to him are necessarily few. But the Y.M.C.A. thank God, is "over there," going where you cannot go—doing the very things you long to do—doing it for you and for him.

Will you help? This vast organization of helpfulness needs at least $2,250,000 from Canada for 1918. For your boy's sake be GENEROUS!!

War Work Summary

There are:

—96 branches of Canadian Y.M.C.A. in France.

—79 branches in England.

—Dozens of Y.M.C.A. dug-outs in forward trenches under fire.

—Over 120 Military Secretaries overseas.

—300,000 letters a day written in Y.M.C.A. overseas buildings.

—$133,000 needed for athletic equipment. (Helps morale of soldiers.)

—Y.M.C.A. saved hundreds of lives at Vimy Ridge by caring for walking wounded.

—Over 100 pianos in England and France, also 300 gramophones and 27 moving picture machines.

—Y.M.C.A. helps boys in hospitals.

—More than 60,000 cups of hot tea and coffee distributed daily in France—free. Estimated cost for 8 months, $48,000.

—150,000 magazines distributed in every month. (Estimated cost $15,000.)

—$125,000 used in 1917 to build huts in France.

—Concerts, sing-songs, "good-night services" and personal interviews energetically conducted. Concerts, lectures, etc., cost $5,000 a month.

—Thousands of soldiers decide for the better life.

—Y.M.C.A. sells many needful things to soldiers for their convenience. Profits, if any, all spent for benefit of soldiers.

—Service to boys in Camp hospitals.

—Red Triangle Clubs for soldiers in Toronto, St. John and Montreal. Centres in Paris and London for men on leave.

—Out of Red Triangle Fund, $75,000 to be contributed to the War Work of the Y.M.C.A.

Boys!

Here's your chance to do a fine stroke in the big war! Help the Y.M.C.A. to help your big brothers overseas joining in the

"Earn and Give Campaign"

Six thousand Canadian older boys are invited to earn and give at least Ten Dollars ($10) to the Red Triangle Fund. That means $20,000 in all! Splendid!

Five thousand dollars will be used for boys' work in India and China; another $5,000 for the National Boys' Work of Canada, and $50,000 to help big brothers in Khaki. Ask your local Y.M.C.A. representative for information and pledge card.

When you have subscribed one or more units of Ten Dollars, you will receive a beautifully engraved certificate.

Note and Comment

If we think this war is costing us a lot of money it may be well for us to recall Ben Franklin's observation that "we are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly, and of these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement." If Ben was right—and he usually was—it seems that a good deal of the high cost of living is up to ourselves.

A consumer is a town man who wants the farmers to feed him for nothing and prepay the freight on the produce. And a producer is a countryman who wants every cent the townman has and leave him nothing for tobacco. How men love each other when it comes to business!

The Y. M. C. A. does not overlap the activities of any other organization, but has a distinct field. It co-operates with the Red Cross, and seeks to get the work done. Its dug-outs in France extend from the base camp right into the trenches and provide cheer and refreshment for the men who are going and coming. Hot tea and coffee and other refreshments are provided, free.

All the man-power, woman-power and child-power of the country is needed today. The nation depends on the last and the least among us. It expects its half-men to do their duty. It needs the services of the halt and maimed; those who have only one or two of their wits at work. It needs us as long as we can stir a finger or wink an eye. If you cannot run a mile, you can walk ten feet; if you cannot raise a hundred weight, you can raise a pound. Some work with a steam hammer, some ply a needle, some are sick in bed and can do naught but pray; all are serving.

Lieut. MacNamara, Officer in charge of recruiting for Western Canada, advises it has been officially announced that the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service have been amalgamated under the Royal Air Service.

The demand for Pilots is becoming greater every day and young men, between the ages of 17 and 30 years, would do well to write to the Recruiting Office of the Royal Air Forces at 282 Main St., Winnipeg, for particulars of Service in this Force.

Garden Stuff

Behold the frost is on the wave,
Soon turns the crust to mud.
Get out, get out, my honest swain,
And plant the stringless spud!

Plant Early Rose or Paschblow beans
Plant bush or climbing peas;
For all this early planting means
Some grand autumnal eats!

Build ridges for the cabbage vine,
Sow turnips under glass,
The toothsome spinach root for mine,
And seedless applesass.

Go drill the spineless Hubbard squash
Set out tamale trees,
Trellis the radishes, bygones—
We must have some of these!

The allspice seed we bought last year
May still hold germs of life,
Altho the fall-sowed prunes, I fear,
Have perished in the strife.

The redbreast's on the orchard bough,
The bluebird on the shrub,
Get at your early planting now,
And raise a lot of grub!

A Truck for the Farmer

FARM equipment which will effect a time and labor-saving, and therefore a money-saving, must be carefully considered by every good farmer now-a-days.

The farm wagon, which for years was the most useful of all farm equipment, is now being replaced on the best farms by a sturdy, dependable motor truck. The truck will haul any farm product—fruit, grain, vegetables, stock, fertilizer, or wood—around the farm, or to the town or city many miles distant, in half the time, and at a much lower cost.

The Ford One-Ton truck is a rapid, economical and very serviceable means of transport. One of these on your farm will save you weeks of time in a single season and will enable you to pass through a crisis of labor shortage with less difficulty.

The Ford truck is supplied as a chassis only. This permits you to select any of the many body styles especially designed for the Ford truck and already on the market. Thus you can mount the one which suits your individual requirements.

Price $750 f.o.b. Ford, Ont.

Three of the many body styles that may be mounted on the Ford truck chassis

HUNS ADVOCATING PREPAREDNESS FOR THE GREAT WAR TO FOLLOW

SAY THAT GREAT BRITAIN MUST BE CONQUERED

Recent German Publications Show the Effect the Sword-Rattlers
Are Having on the Minds of the People in Enemy Countries,
For Whom Peace Talk has no Real Meaning.

Sword rattling has been elevated into a religion in Germany, writes Italian Grande from Berne, Switzerland, to the New York Times, and he warns those persons who want "peace by understanding" that Germany, far from being cured of the war spirit, is actually educating her people to the necessity of another war to follow this one.

This "next war" literature advocates six main ideas concerning the desirability of war for itself. They are:

(1) War and its good moral influence are praised and enthusiastically dwelt upon, especially because of their being of such assistance in promoting civilization.

(2) The idea of universal peace is scoffed at and contempt poured upon advocates.

(3) Every possible argument is adduced for the increase of armaments after the war.

(4) Certain of these publications stated in them that preparations must already be begun for this future war.

(5) Definite proposals are made concerning methods of preparations for the "next war."

The most assiduous of the German sword-rattlers are the German professors. Professor Rudolph Eucken of Jena argues that war and civilization are not opposed as might appear to be. He says that the doctor asserts that war destroys all sham and brings truth to light; it preserves people from artificiality and effeminacy; it creates the regeneration of mankind and the rejuvenation of civilization.

Another man, Professor E. Brandenburg, in a book called "Germany's Aims in the War," published only last year, concludes that the world's history follows natural laws, not ethical laws. This gentleman is of the opinion that a court of law for the decision of international disputes would be a serious obstacle to healthy progress. After the war Germany must continue to pile up armaments in order to insure her future. "In future Germany must be more strongly armed than ever, both at sea and on land."

Other German professors write in the same strain. One of them says that "Pacifism is madness," and that "the German people cannot be too strongly warned against pacifism." This gentleman adds the following as to the relationship between nations: "What we want is not to make moral conquests in the world, but that the world should fear us. Between individual human beings love is the surest basis for union and peace, but between individual nations it is force and force only."

A commercial authority, in a book called "Peace and War," points out that Britain must be conquered and brought low. Britain is to be the object of Germany's next war.

German divines, far from condemning this doctrine, are quite in accord with it. A collection of fourteen war sermons, published in 1912, actually contains the assertion that "we Germans" can advance only by the "force of our arms."

All this literature has been gathered and its trend noted in a publication issued by Dr. F. Lifschitz, a professor in Berne University, Switzerland. He shows, in his article, that the process of educating the Teutonic mind as to the necessity of further wars to follow the present operation, already being put into active operation. As the writer in The New York Times points out, peace by a understanding means nothing more or less than a German peace, and a German peace means a more or less temporary armistice to last until Germany has completed her preparations for the "next war."

First Ode to the Kaiser

Diabolic Inversions of the Truth and Decency as Expounded
by the Hun

George Ade has come to the support of the committee on national defence and has issued a sort of primer for those who run and read, setting out Kultur and the ethics of the Kaiser as the celebrated author of "Fables in Slang" sees them. With all their humor they are true to type as well as ca. make them.

Blessed are the children, for those who run and read, setting out Kultur and the ethics of the Kaiser as the celebrated author of "Fables in Slang" sees them. With all their humor they are true to type as well as ca. make them.

Be sure you are right handy with fire-arms, then go ahead.

An evil reputation is better than riches.

Truth crushed to earth will not rise again; if the crushing is done in a superior and efficient manner.

Thrice armed is he who goes around picking quarrels.

Might makes right.

Hell on earth and hatred to all men.

Do unto others as you suspect that they might do unto you if they ever get to be as disreputable as you are.

Gods helps the man that helps himself to his neighbor's house and fields and his unprotected women.

These apt apophthegms of Kultur are put into practice every day as the Hun practices prove. And with many, Ade's nonsense will be more efficacious as an argument than the indictments of less humorously inclined writers.

The one great commandment of Kultur, which is the keynote of the whole campaign of world conquest, is that "Do others first and explain afterwards." This is the first, the last, and the main of all their other diabolic inversions of truth and decency.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Poland as a Bone of Contention

May Yet Cause Trouble Between Germany and Austria

Poland may yet cause trouble between Germany and Austria. The Tagliche Rundschau describes the proposed Polish settlement as "an astonishing demand upon the nerves, patience and good humor of the German nation." It continues:

"If the Hungarian kaiser of Austria is, with our approval, to be crowned king of Poland, then the last traces of any German rights or influence in Poland will have vanished. We shall ourselves have done what no power in the world could have otherwise done, and our troops in Poland will only be there to guard us. Our three years' sacrifices will have been made, not for ourselves, but for other people. Our position in Poland at the general peace conference will have been completely thrown away. Who has the courage to do this fateful thing? Not a chancellor, for in reality we have no chancellor, only irresponsible foreign secretary. It is he, Kuehlmann, who during the interregnum of twilight between the old and the new era has been busy with his friend Germin deciding Germany's fate. What could be more fatal than a Hapsburg Poland? It would, too, be a thorn in the flesh between us and Austria-Hungary."

"She hasn't kept pace with her husband."

"What do you mean? Hasn't she been able to spend his money as fast as his salary was raised?"—Detroit Free Press.

"Castles in the Air"

Viennese Paper Says Hope of a
Peace Imposed by the World
Is Fallacious

Proofs multiply of the war weariness and disillusionment of Austrians. The calls repeat an outbreak of criticism of the war party, but this is nothing new. In November one of the principal Viennese papers, Die Zeit, in an article headed "Castles in the Air," dismissed as wholly futile and incapable of accomplishment the program of the warring party in Germany and Austria.

Any one, says the Zeit, who, like so many persons in Germany today, but, fortunately, not so many in Austria, still believes in the possibility of a peace imposed by force and the sword must have profited absolutely not at all by the lessons of this war. A peace dictated by force and Germany to the rest of the world is the last link in a chain of notions which have one after the other proved false. The object of the war, says the Zeit, it was not unreasonable to have hoped for an Austro-German peace imposed by force.

"Above all, we would then have avowed enemies than now." But, as is admitted with engaging frankness, early in the war Austria and Germany hoped for a win neutral way of thinking. Germany, in particular, laid herself out, with no less zeal than confidence to win neutrals to her cause, firmly convinced that "if only our cause were sufficiently well explained to them neutrals would undoubtedly turn to us, and especially to Germany."

"Most hopes of all were built upon America, which was considered as the leading power among neutrals, and with its help it was hoped to win over the other neutrals. Bales upon bales of propaganda writings were despatched to neutral countries for the time of scarcity of paper had not arrived. It was not until we saw that we have not won over a single neutral country." On the contrary, concludes the Zeit, even countries which have hitherto remained neutral "are no longer able to conceal their aversion to our cause and their positive hatred of the Germans."

Another "castle in the air" was the notion that the central empires were self-sufficient and did not need trade or communication with the rest of the world. "We were assured," says the Zeit, by all those whom it reverently stigmatized as fools, that "Turkey would supply us with any quantity of raw materials; that Egypt had endless supplies of cotton; that in Anatolia there were unlimited stores of wheat and minerals; finally, that everything any one could possibly want was to be had in abundance in Mesopotamia."

The only drawback to the Egyptian cotton was that Turkey had first to reconquer Egypt from England. A disadvantage of the Anatolian wheat and one of the chief means of transport, while a somewhat serious drawback to the Mesopotamian supplies of "everything" was that Mesopotamia was not yet conquered.

Secondly, that the British were there, sitting tight, and apparently disinclined to move.

Finally, there was a third "castle in the air," a castle based upon the last two—the enforced peace.

After the war, the Zeit clearly perceives that "We Austrians" will have "to resume our relations with our enemies, avowed and unavowed, but it is no more possible to compel these than to compel love."

"Good Night, Ladies!"

Americans in the Trenches are Not to Be Set Dreaming of Fair
Unknowns

General Pershing has put a ban on romance by the trench. The Soldiers' Godmothers' League cease its organized attempt to introduce into the American army the institution of "Fillees and Marriages."

He adduces as his chief reason that the correspondence between lonely soldiers in France and their godmothers on the other side of the water would clog the transport of necessary mail and supplies. His secondary reason is that he does not want his soldiers corresponding with strange women. Perhaps he means to imply that information of use to the enemy might be obtained by spies in this manner. Perhaps he is thinking of the propriety of any case, the American army and people are to be robbed of a highly picturesque feature of the war.

Men in the trenches are not to be set dreaming of fair unknowns; ladies of all ages are not to have the fun of petting some huge bear of a general three thousand miles away. General Pershing has taken the joy out of army letters. On the other hand, he has reduced the possibility of a "Fillee and Marriage" to a farce. —New York Evening Post.

China men still observe the religious custom of "feeding the dead." The food is intended as a propitiatory offering to the Chinese evil spirit. The offerings vary according to the rank and status of the occupants of the graves.

The new Jewish battalion of the British army has no sabbath. It is composed practically of teetotalers. A wet canteen that was opened in the camp ran for two weeks and was then closed for lack of business.

What a Hun Officer Saw

Enemy Troops Have Terrifying Experience Dodging British Shells

The following extracts from the diary of an officer in charge of a relieving company of German infantry are authentic. They are interesting as giving a glimpse at the attitude and feelings of the enemy.

The company is to go into the line, and starts at 9:30 p.m. "Light machine guns are distributed. The close combat troops are given signal cloths and very light ammunition."

"It is raining, and very dark. Forward march at ease, and the company starts on its way."

"Platoons march separately, at one hundred yards distance, as the road is not safe."

"There is little shelling and everything is alone with his thoughts."

"We are passing through a pretty and fairly large town. Not a soul at the windows, which have no panes. Here and there a house destroyed by shell fire. Our footsteps echo mournfully on the pavement."

"Violent artillery fire makes the air quiver as we cross the market place, which has been torn by shells."

"We have reached the cross roads where the route branches. We turn down from here, and the order is given, 'In single file, right turn.' Each man takes his position behind his leader, and we form one long line."

"It is wisser to march this way, as like this we present less of a target. Ten minutes later a six-inch shell explodes behind us with a terrific crash, spurring up mud sky high."

"The fuse flies off, winding a trail of light in its flight. A second shell falls thirty yards in front of us in a farmyard. I give the order, 'At the double,' and we start running."

"Left and right shells are falling, and it appears to us that the English are observing us, so do shells and shrapnel pursue us, often exploding a few ten yards from us in the mud, showering shrapnel and iron on us."

"At the double all the time, I urge on the men, who, laden with their heavy packs, appear only to crawl, and are bathed in perspiration."

"How the air crackles, hisses, howls and whines when a heavy shell cleaves it. Involuntarily everyone stops dead, waiting for it to explode in our midst."

"We pass three battery pits—that is to say, they used to be good, concrete dugouts; now they are destroyed, having been blown up at the time of the great retreat in this area. Our heavies could not be brought back, and the shell-ton ground, so they had to be destroyed."

"We all believed that the English would push us further, but they contented themselves with the high ground. They have a wonderful position there, leaving us destroyed shelters and dugouts to the south of it."

"We establish posts. The troops we have relieved start back. These dugouts are dark caves and holes. No one can lie down in them, or even stretch out. Our people took the dirt before he wrote any more."

Alfalfa in B. C.

Fine Alfalfa Seed Is Grown in British Columbia

Seed experts who have visited the Okanagan Valley, British Columbia, in the last two years have suggested that this climate should lend itself excellently to seed-raising. It has already been demonstrated what can be done in selecting and saving corn for seed purposes and now a very satisfactory experiment with alfalfa seed has just been completed at Kelowna, British Columbia. Last year Casorso Bros. saved a small plot of alfalfa for seed and this year secured a fine crop of seed acres for this purpose. This crop has just been threshed by the government seed-huller and the results are very satisfactory.

The crop threshed out 900 lbs. of good seed, and it is estimated that the value of the alfalfa straw will be about the same as the best production, so that the seed at present prices should yield a good profit.

Horse Breeders' Clubs

In Western Canada there are approximately 70 Horse Breeders' Clubs with federal assistance: 15 of them are in Manitoba, about 40 in Saskatchewan, and about 15 in Alberta. It is expected that a great many will be formed in various districts this winter, since those that have been inaugurated are so enthusiastic over the results obtained.

There is the factor of which too much has been made in the past and not nearly enough is made in the present. It is the economic factor. Both parties to the great struggle, even if we only now consider them as the western alliance vs. the central empires, are under a great economic strain. Labor has been withdrawn from the fields on either side. One side has overseas supplies, but finds communication by sea increasing difficult. Each might argue, if it were a question of merely pleading one's own case, that the other was under a greater economic strain than he. But certain facts remain that, whereas the Allies have complete resources—though these resources have to be husbanded and, for instance, the central empires have incomplete resources—they are debared from tropical products of every kind. They cannot get rubber, for instance, and the tonnage does not yet in main short of certain essentials of which the most important is fats—both for lubrication and for food—fats they will continue to lack in a degree far greater than we lack them.

Again, the mere man-power for production, with a margin over and above the man-power for the field, is heavily in favor of the Allies. It is true that the United States cannot keep any very large force in Europe, because a very large force 3,000 miles from its source of supply requires a correspondingly amount of tonnage (say six tons a man) and the tonnage does not yet exist. But what the Allies have got is a margin or overplus of human beings able to mine, to forge, to carpenter, to blow and the rest, much greater than the central empires, even with the population they have enslaved, can discover.

The conclusion is that though for some little time to come the western alliance will again be thrown—short of political accidents which cannot be forecast—upon the defenses, its margin of supply upon which everything ultimately depends is greater and will more and more be greater, than that of its enemy. The enemy knows that, and Allied public opinion should be instructed upon it. It means that if we pass with tenacity the strain of the present, the next year should be in our favor.—From Land and Water.

British Farmers are After Sports
Are shown to be modified to grouse? The question is raised by a writer in the British Agricultural Gazette, and it is declared that "the keepers object strongly to shepherds claiming the right to a free pass over the moors. Thousands of sheep, the writer adds, 'are thus bullied off their natural feeding grounds.'"

But there are prospects that this state of affairs will be righted as the result of the agitation through Britain. "From Chapel-en-le-Frith to Doncaster, meetings have been held to consider the matter, and these local efforts, supported by the Sheep Breeders' association, give promise that this long-continued wrong, the name of sport, will be ended now, and it is to be hoped, for all time."

Japan's Trade
Reaping the benefits of the elimination of Germany from commercial competition, Japan has enjoyed great prosperity during the last two years. She has now entered the piano trade, and is exporting an upright at the price of one hundred and thirty-five dollars. Five hundred pianos have already been exported to Australia.

It has been found that typewriting on parchment deeds is not durable in deeds deposited within very recent years many lines are illegible, and several lines have completely disappeared.

COPENHAGEN
CHEWING TOBACCO

Simply Place It In The Mouth.
Between Lower Lip and Gum.

This is the way to get all the flavor and satisfaction out of every pinch of Copenhagen Chewing Tobacco.

You see, "Copenhagen" is made of the best, old, high-flavored leaf tobacco. The snuff process—by which the leaf tobacco is changed into fine grains, and scientifically pressed—retains all the good of the tobacco.

Those who are trying "Copenhagens" for the first time, should remember to use only a small quantity, and to place the pinch in the mouth between the lower lip and the gum, without any attempt at chewing it.
